Attendance Requirements

A student is expected to attend all class contact hours for a face-to-face (F2F) or blended course and complete all activities for a blended or fully online course.

A student who arrives more than 15 minutes late may be penalised for non-attendance. If such a penalty is imposed, the student must be informed verbally at the end of class and advised in writing within 24 hours.

If a student experiences illness, misadventure or other occurrence that makes absence from a class/activity unavoidable, or expects to be absent from a forthcoming class/activity, they should seek permission from the Course Authority, and where applicable, their request should be accompanied by an original or certified copy of a medical certificate or other form of appropriate evidence.

A Course Authority may excuse a student from classes or activities for up to one month. However, they may assign additional and/or alternative tasks to ensure compliance. A Course Authority considering the granting of absence must be satisfied a student will still be able to meet the course's learning outcomes and/or volume of learning. A student seeking approval to be absent for more than one month must apply in writing to the Dean and provide all original or certified supporting documentation.

For more information about the SAM attendance protocols, see the SAM policies and guidelines webpage: <https://sam.arts.unsw.edu.au/students/resources/policies-guidelines/>

Essential Information

All SAM students must make a valid attempt at all assessments in order to pass the course.

For essential student information relating to: attendance requirements; requests for extension; review of marks; occupational health and safety; examination procedures; special consideration in the event of illness or misadventure; student equity and disability; and other essential matters, see the SAM Policies and Guidelines webpage: <https://sam.arts.unsw.edu.au/students/resources/policies-guidelines/>

Summary of the Course

Subject Area: Creative Writing

This course can also be studied in the following specialisation: English

This course develops your skills in rigorous close reading of the formal elements of narrative fiction, enabling you to better understand and appreciate how fiction works. What is a narrative? Do all narratives share formal features? How do authors construct their stories? How do readers recognize and make sense of these stories? You will learn the principles of narratology, and how it provides a poetics of fiction for critics and writers. You will gain in-depth knowledge of concepts such as free indirect discourse, perspective, unreliable narration, and the paratext. A number of recent theoretical approaches to narrative (feminist, cognitive, rhetorical) will be put into dialogue with each other and employed to anatomize novels that have provoked controversy or ethical debates amongst readers.

At the conclusion of this course the student will be able to

1. Identify and explain the formal features of narrative fiction
2. Analyze the relationship between form and content in individual works of narrative fiction
3. Interrogate the relationship between theoretical concepts and critical/creative practice
4. Assess the major movements and methodological debates within narrative theory

Teaching Strategies

Teaching strategies

- lectures to familiarise students with key issues and concepts in the course
- group discussion of issues raised by lectures and material in course reader
- close reading and textual analysis of set texts to develop critical skills
- occasional in-class group exercises
- time allocated for each student to offer their own opinion
- no set questions for major essay to encourage students to research the topics which most interest them, and to provide them with the opportunity to make their own original intervention in a scholarly debate

Assessment

Assessment criteria

Theoretical critique

- demonstrated understanding of methodological procedures in narrative theory
- capacity to exercise logic and original thinking in the service of disciplinary debate
- ability to successfully argue a point

creative experiment

- demonstrated awareness of narratological categories and their creative possibilities
- the capacity to engage productively with these categories in the genre of fiction
- ability to structure an innovative narrative

In class test

- Demonstrated familiarity with and understanding of theoretical concepts covered in the first five weeks of the course
- Ability to provide a considered and insightful response to the exam questions
- Clarity of thought and written expression

Scholarly essay

- demonstrated understanding of narrative techniques operating in the literary work(s) under scrutiny
- productive use of relevant narratological methods to explicate these techniques
- capacity and willingness to develop your own approach to theories of narrative
- ability to produce a clearly written, grammatically correct, and logically structured essay, proof-read for all errors
- ability to construct a sustained and coherent argument about the chosen topic
- ability to situate your argument in the context of a wider scholarly debate
- ability to support this argument with a 'close reading' of the books discussed
- ability to cite and analyse appropriate passages as textual evidence
- demonstrated awareness of the issues raised and debated in class
- demonstrated knowledge of the books being discussed
- ability to correctly and consistently employ a recognised referencing system

Assessment Tasks

Assessment task	Weight	Length	Due Date	Submission
Major research essay	50%	3000 words	Thursday 8th June	null
In-class test	25%	40 minutes	null	null
Minor assignment	25%	1000 words	Thursday 23rd March	null

Assessment Details

Assessment 1: Major research essay

Details: Major research essay (3,500 words) on topic devised by student. Students consult with lecturer in advance on selection and framing of topic. This is the final assessment task. Numerical mark and assessment rubric provided. Written commentary provided with marked essay if requested.

Additional details:

- 3000 word essay which analyses at least one of the set books (Lolita, Atonement, The Known World) in relation to relevant theories of narrative, and which engages critically with the debates that have informed the course
- no topic questions will be provided for this essay; students are expected to develop their own topic in consultation with me

Learning outcomes:

- Identify and explain the formal features of narrative fiction
- Analyze the relationship between form and content in individual works of narrative fiction
- Interrogate the relationship between theoretical concepts and critical/creative practice
- Assess the major movements and methodological debates within narrative theory

Assessment 2: In-class test

Details: In-class test, 40 minutes (short answers), on narrative terms and concepts. Marked tests returned with numerical mark, assessment rubric and comments; students invited to discuss results with lecturer. Lecturer will also provide general feedback about the test answers in the class when marked tests are returned. This will enable students to correct areas of weakness before the major assignment.

Additional details:

- This is a 40 minute closed book test which will assess your retention and understanding of the theoretical terms and concepts encountered in weeks one to five of the course.
- If you miss the test you will have only one chance to schedule another time. To do so, you must inform me ON OR BEFORE THE DAY by phone or email of your absence, and be able to provide a legitimate, documented reason for it.

Learning outcomes:

- Identify and explain the formal features of narrative fiction
- Assess the major movements and methodological debates within narrative theory

Assessment 3: Minor assignment

Details: Minor assignment (1,500 words) - critical analysis of narrative devices employed in a sample of short fiction ; OR a creative work that experiments with and seeks to extend the possibilities of a particular device in fictional form Assignments returned with numerical mark, assessment rubric and comments; students invited to discuss their marked work with lecturer. There will also be a general discussion in class about the strengths and weaknesses revealed by this assessment exercise. This will assist students in their preparation for the major essay.

Additional details:

Theoretical critique or creative experiment

- 1000 word critical diagnosis of the research questions and methods of narratology. Structuralist narratology proposed a science of narrative. You will be presented with statements of method by Roland Barthes, Tzvetan Todorov and Gerard Genette, and asked to offer your own critique of their limitations, and your informed opinion on what is required for a comprehensive poetics of fiction.

OR

- A 1000 word microfiction that experiments with one or more elements of narrative form covered in the course, such as repeating narrative or metalepsis, or which stretches the boundaries of what could be considered a narrative. The aim is to test whether a 'grammar' of narrative can function as a rhetoric as well as a poetics to generate innovative creative work.

Learning outcomes:

- Identify and explain the formal features of narrative fiction
- Analyze the relationship between form and content in individual works of narrative fiction
- Interrogate the relationship between theoretical concepts and critical/creative practice

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Students are expected to put their names and student numbers on every page of their assignments.

Turnitin Submission

If you encounter a problem when attempting to submit your assignment through Turnitin, please telephone External Support on 9385 3331 or email them on externalteltsupport@unsw.edu.au. Support hours are 8:00am – 10:00pm on weekdays and 9:00am – 5:00pm on weekends (365 days a year). If you are unable to submit your assignment due to a fault with Turnitin you may apply for an extension, but you must retain your ticket number from External Support (along with any other relevant documents) to include as evidence to support your extension application. If you email External Support you will automatically receive a ticket number, but if you telephone you will need to specifically ask for one. Turnitin also provides updates on their system status on Twitter.

Generally in SAM there will no longer be any hard-copy submission; assessments must be submitted electronically via either Turnitin or a Moodle assignment. In instances where this is not possible it will be stated on your course's moodle site with alternative submission details.

Late Assessment Penalties

An assessed task is deemed late if it is submitted after the specified time and date as set out in the course Learning Management System (LMS).

The late penalty is the loss of 5% of the total possible marks for the task for each day or part thereof the work is late. Lateness will include weekends and public holidays. This does not apply to a task that is assessed but no mark is awarded.

Work submitted fourteen days after the due date will be marked and feedback provided but no mark will be recorded. If the work would have received a pass mark but for the lateness and the work is a compulsory course component a student will be deemed to have met that requirement. This does not apply to a task that is assessed but no mark is awarded.

Work submitted twenty-one days after the due date will not be accepted for marking or feedback and will receive no mark or grade. If the assessment task is a compulsory component of the course a student will automatically fail the course.

Special Consideration Applications

You can apply for special consideration when illness or other circumstances interfere with your assessment performance.

Sickness, misadventure or other circumstances beyond your control may:

- * Prevent you from completing a course requirement,
- * Keep you from attending an assessable activity,
- * Stop you submitting assessable work for a course,

* Significantly affect your performance in assessable work, be it a formal end-of-semester examination, a class test, a laboratory test, a seminar presentation or any other form of assessment.

For further details in relation to Special Consideration including 'When to Apply', 'How to Apply' and 'Supporting Documentation' please refer to the Special Consideration website:

<https://student.unsw.edu.au/special-consideration>

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Copying: using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledging the source or using quotation marks. This also applies to images, art and design projects, as well as presentations where someone presents another's ideas or words without credit.

Inappropriate paraphrasing: changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and information without acknowledgement. This also applies in presentations where someone paraphrases another's ideas or words without credit. It also applies to piecing together quotes and paraphrases into a new whole, without referencing and a student's own analysis to bring the material together.

Collusion: working with others but passing off the work as a person's individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student before the due date, or for the purpose of them plagiarising at any time, paying another person to perform an academic task, stealing or acquiring another person's academic work and copying it, offering to complete another person's work or seeking payment for completing academic work.

Inappropriate citation: Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary" source from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication ("self-plagiarism"): submitting your own work, in whole or in part, where it has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course at UNSW or another university.

Correct referencing practices;

Paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing and time management

Appropriate use of and attribution for a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre. Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting and proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.

Course Evaluation and Development

Each year, reading materials and pedagogical strategies are revised as a result of students' responses, as long as they are considered and productive. Students are encouraged to comment informally on the course throughout the semester. The formal, and anonymous, CATEI evaluation process at the end of semester is of vital importance for the ongoing development of this course.

Now that CATEI evaluations are conducted online, student participation has dropped dramatically, resulting in feedback which is statistically unreliable. For instance, when only a small proportion of students respond, one dissatisfied student can constitute 20% of the overall response. It tends to be only the students who loved a course or those who were disillusioned by it who take the time to fill out the surveys. This presents a skewed overall impression of what students thought. You are thus urged to take the time to fill out the CATEI survey at the end of semester. Remember too, that in the same way comments on an assignment are more helpful than a mark, your written feedback on the course is more important than the boxes you tick, or the circles you click on with your mouse.
